Virginia Winds Academy Mission Statement

Who We Are: Virginia Winds Academy, its staff and musicians, exists to contribute to the vibrant musical education and performance community in the Northern Virginia region. The Academy's ensembles represent cooperative efforts of music educators in collegiate, secondary, and primary music education environments. The participating members also reflect the talent and collective musical prowess of the formidable private music instruction available in Northern Virginia.

Participants: The Academy contributes to the music education environment by strengthening the technical, expressive and intellectual skill sets of its members. These players, hailing from more than forty different schools and learning environments, share concepts, model expectations, and encourage excellence in performance, each in their own local communities.

Artistic Staff: Virginia Winds Academy is blessed with an experienced and diverse team of music educators. In addition to the conducting staff, the Academy features instrumental specialists, versatile player coaches and a support staff of experts in process, production and media outreach.

Environment: Academy sessions function as an incubating environment for the future corps of music educators and performers in our culture. Via active participation in rehearsal, individual practice, and public performance, Academy players function as both learners and leaders. Advanced ensemble performance expectations, founded on the pursuit of excellence, represent both processes and goals of the Academy experience.

Methods: Academy sessions prepare for performances and more; they function as a laboratory learning environment for music educators in training, modeling best practices of large and small ensemble methods. The scope and sequence of the Academy repertoire, performed by all ensembles, explores a wide categorical range of musical genres. This diversity of literature provides players, leaders, and listeners with a comprehensive introduction to wind band literature.

Outcomes: The collaborative nature of rehearsals and performances engenders camaraderie, trust, inspiration and interconnectivity among all who are a part of the process. Enthusiasm for both the product and the process is infectious, and a source of joy for all who contribute to Virginia Winds Academy.

VWA Band Buddies

Virginia Winds Academy strives to promote excellence in pre-college music education and performance. From the very earliest school band experience through the highest levels of high school band, to show the very youngest band members that a world of musical possibilities exists just around the corner, we've created VWA Band Buddies. Band Buddies is a free after-school virtual program that pairs VWA high school musicians with beginning band students for private tutoring sessions. Connecting with and establishing a strong friendship with an older musician will help our young students unlock their potential and encourage their own musical growth. This program gives them the opportunity to:

- Develop their musical skills in a fun and friendly atmosphere
- Receive mentorship and practice help from a VWA student
- Attend VWA concerts as a "VIP"
- Receive a really cool VWA Band Buddies T-Shirt

VWA member high school student mentors have the opportunity to:

- Learn how to teach private lessons through coaching with VWA staff
- Gain practical private teaching experience, giving them a marketable skill they can use for a lifetime
- Create meaningful interactions with their young students
- Receive service hours for school, religious, or scout organizations

Elementary student "buddies" will be paired with a VWA volunteer high school student mentor, who will be guided by Dr. Jacob Kohut and Mrs. Kristen Sheridan. Mentors will independently coordinate with their buddies and their parents to schedule virtual lesson dates at mutually convenient times.
